

CAMPUS RESOURCES

Academic Exploration Advising has compiled a list of resources that are available to USC students. Click each resource title for a link to each resource's website.

ACADEMIC & LEARNING DEVELOPMENT

The Kortschak Center

The Kortschak Center for Learning and Creativity provides academic support to help USC students make successful transitions to college. Meet with an academic coach through drop-in hours, attend workshops, and access online tools and resources for assistance with organization strategies, time and stress management, study skills, learning development, and more!

Academic Advising

Make sure to touch base with your AEA advisor and regularly check Advise USC for educational and student support services throughout the academic year. Review the AEA website to learn more about our AEA Advising Team.

Writing Center

The USC Writing Center provides free, one-on-one feedback to current USC students and helps with everything from essays to cover letters to scholarship applications.

Dornsife Tutoring

Dornsife Tutoring provides free tutoring services to students for select courses within Dornsife.

Viterbi Learning Program \(VLP\)

The Viterbi Learning Program supports undergraduate students through peer mentoring, tutoring, academic skills workshops, and group study sessions, to help engineering and pre-engineering students learn better study habits and thrive in their classes.

Economics Tutoring Center

The Economics Tutoring Center provides peer tutoring to students for select Economics courses. Review the center's site for weekly peer tutoring hours and the location.

Office of Student Accessibility Services \(OSAS\)

OSAS is the unit responsible for ensuring equal access for students with disabilities in compliance with state and federal law. Services include assistive technology, accommodated testing, and notetaking services.

Math Center

The Math Center is run informally and is designed for easy drop-in usage. It works best to use the center as a study room, and it is a great place to meet up with your study partners and work on homework. If and as you need help, ask one of the Teaching Assistants or a Math Center Assistant.

Supplemental Instruction

Supplemental Instruction (SI) provides regularly scheduled, peer-led study sessions for various courses. Work in small, collaborative groups with your classmates, review lecture material, course reading, and homework, and go over exam strategies with SI Leaders who know the course and professors.

Marshall Study Sessions

Marshall Study Sessions are a supplement to classroom instruction and are led by Peer Academic Leaders (PALs) who assist students in understanding difficult concepts and building study skills and confidence in selected core course subjects. Marshall Study Sessions are similar to group tutoring and most effective when students attend class regularly and actively engage in the process of thinking critically about the course content. Sessions can also be used to meet with other students to form study groups.

Office Hours

*No Link. Make sure to review your course syllabi for instructions on how you can meet with your instructor and/or TAs or attend office hours to get your course-related questions answered.

SUPPORT & WELLBEING

Campus Support & Intervention \(CSI\)

Campus Support & Intervention (CSI) connects with members of the USC community when they need support in achieving their academic, professional, and/or personal goals. Whether you are seeking support for yourself or someone else, CSI is available to help you problem solve, understand options, and connect with resources.
